What does security mean to young people in the time of war and economic and climate uncertainty? What demands can we make to soon live in a safe, inclusive Europe?

This learning space is designed for young activists (15–35) from across Europe to be trained in the basics of campaigning and how to frame complex issues through clear messages and powerful stories. In 2023, it is impossible to discuss any event without mentioning security – in every sense of the word.

The two sessions, organised by GEF with the support of FYEG, will facilitate learning about what security is and what it can mean in different regional contexts in Europe, in the light of past conflicts, crises and current trends. The session will be led by carefully selected experts. Following this, space will be given to those directly affected by the recent conflict in Ukraine to share their thoughts, experiences and ideas for moving forward. After the Summer School, participants will be able to talk about security in an informed and holistic way.
